Blessed are the Meek :

Our beakbook this morning might be a direct quotation from Psalm 57:11

It may be as it is amongst these others it doesn't appear to mean quite what the Psalmist meant.

He makes his meaning very clear -

The righteous shall prosper - and he goes on to say that he has lived a long time, and hasn't yet seen a case where the righteous didn't prosper in the end and the evil get their comeuppance!

Men like Jeremiah & the author of the Book of Job could not share this view.

Certainly there is a more searching view of the Beakbook in the mind of the and trying to make clear the divinely justified its words.

Because as always with the Gospel of X
we find within ourselves & in our life types
a profound inner agreement and a robust contradiction.

Blessed are the meek :

 - this word is - of all things Debonair

Blessed are the Debonair - for they shall inherit the Earth.

The contrast is striking at first.

For once it would take a Frenchman to tell us what
 His language means of Debonair

But even without him - we can receive considerable help.

We can see at least that the Debonair man is the opposite of the man who greedily clings to all of his worldly goods & status which he has fought to possess.

It is the difference between the man who: gains life & snatches & grabs for it.

and the man who gratefully accepts it as a gift.
