

John Stone's Hats

John Stone liked HATS

— all kinds of hats.

One day John Stone built an airplane.

He took his red scarf,

his red helmet,

and Bill's goggles,

then climbed into
the pilot's seat.

Where do you think he will fly today?

On a cool October day,
John Stone found

a tall black hat,

a broom,

and a long black cape.

What do you think he did with them?

John Stone borrowed a hat and cane
- then danced around the yard.

From whom do you think he borrowed the hat and cane?

From your Grandpa?

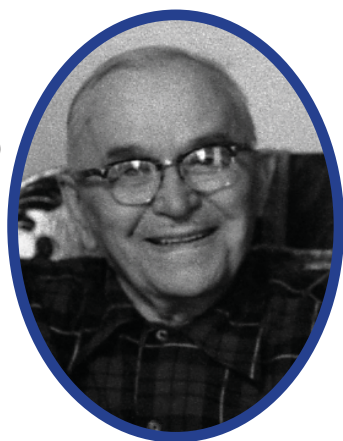

From your Grandma?

From your Great-Grandpa?

Or from Greatpa?

It was from Greatpa
(your Great-Great-Grandpa).

Greatpa didn't mind at all since he had another cane.

John Stone was hungry,
so he put on his chef's hat

... and went into the kitchen.

What do you think he made?

Was it a gingerbread house?

Was it some bread?

What about some chocolate eclairs?

... or some cookies?

Maybe it was a birthday cake

...or a yummy pie.

What do you think it was?

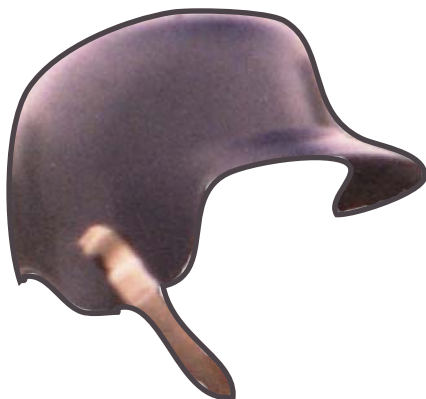

It was a whole
turkey dinner!

Fran and Jim helped, of course.

John Stone was on a farm
when he found a hat like this.

He wondered what it was for
— so he asked the farmer.

What do you think the farmer said?

It was for riding a Horse!

John Stone liked to wear crazy hats

Even when he grew up to be an Uncle, he would wear them.

Sometimes he would wear them with your brother

...and sometimes with your mother

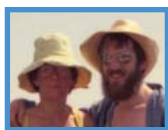

...and sometimes with you!

Probably he will always wear them!
